G. H. Lowe, Mrs. L. M. Monroe and Mrs. ber of the Board of Public Works. Both men enjoy the confidence of their fellow citizens to an unusual degree and have a popular and large following.

=The Bradshaw Missionary Association Pleasant Street Cong'l Sunday school, of which he is superintendent of the senior next Monday afternoon, at three o'clock, in the ladies' parlor. The speaker will be Miss Stella M. Jordan, formerly a missionary teacher in Utah, who will speak on "A Western Missionary Trip."

=Grace, wife of Dr. Pearson and the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel A. Fowle, arrived in Arlington on Tuesday evening from her home in Califormia, where she went as a bride. Mrs. Pearson was summoned home on account of the serious prostration of her mother, who, however, has shown marked gain since Mrs. Pearson's arrival at her mother's bedside.

=The rite of baptism by immersion was conducted by Dr. Wood at the Baptist church last Sunday morning, the candidates being Mr. Lawrence Outhit Gates, Mr. Carl W. Patriquin, Miss Helen Reed. The flowers on the communion table were in memorian of Miss Africe M. Burtt and were the loving tribute of Miss Olsen's Sunday school class.

=Miss Helen Tracy, of Wyman street, took part in a concert given by the Mac-Dowell Club at the Grundmann Studio, Boston, on Thursday of this week. She played the following piano solos: Reverie, Strauss; Minstrels, Debussy; Asphodel, Cyril Scott; Sequidilla, Albeniz. Miss Tracy's playing showed what excel-lent training and intelligent understanding can accomplish.

=The annual reports of the various town officers are being filed and will be compiled in book form for distribution in a short time. Many of the reports are along the annual routine lines, while others contain matters of interest. The Police Department asks for two more men and a motor ambulance or combination. Another recommendation is that the town vote to lay out Massachusetts avenue from Central street to the Heights and eventually make it some 15 feet wider. This plan would call for the taking of land all along the street.

=The monthly report of the Arlington Disrict Nursing Asso'n for January is as follows :-Nursing visits......Tubercular Obstetrical ent to Hospital.....

=The members of the New High School Building Committee are looking with considerable regret to the end of their labors. They have accepted the building from the contractors and are only waiting for some equipment to be corrected before making their report and formerly turning the building over to the town. The men on this committee have enjoyed their work and have pulled together for the good of the town in the most pleasant kind of way, and friendships have been formed which will be the reward they will receive for the great amount of time and painstaking labor they have spent in the work.
A large share of the good-fellowship of the committee is due to Mr. H. B. S. Prescott, the architect, who in his quite way, has smoothed over the rough spots.

=A horse attached to a milk wagon, owned by J. W. Henry of Belmont, had a close call from drowning Tuesday afternoon, in Spy Pond. It is reported that the animal was being turned around at the top of the slope on Addison street. The wheels of the wagon cramped and frightened the horse, which bolted down the hill. The street ends at the shores of Spy Pond, and as the driver and his helper saw that they could not check the horse they jumped and landed safely. The horse ran into the water and in his struggles to free himself became tangled up in the harness and one leg went through the front spring of the wagon. Patrolman Barry, after a hard struggle, during which time the harness had to be cut, freed the horse and he was aided to the shore. The animal was much used up and a veterinary was called.

=President John A. Easton, of the Men's Bible Class of the First Baptist church, presided at one of the most popular and largely attended socials and en-tertainments the class has ever given. It took place on Tuesday evening of this week in the chapel of the church. The principal feature of the evening was a talk by Dr. Walter J. Dodd, of the Massachusetts General Hospital, illustrated by the stereopticon. Dr. Dodd is said to be the principal X-Ray expert in this part of the country. He has recently spent four months in France and in the hospital war bases, and on Tuesday evening gave his views as a surgeon of the war and its horrors. This has led him to be an ardent advocate of preparedness. He detailed many incidents of great suffering and pathos, yet he said the men of the contending armies display to hatred for each other and show wonderful fortitude and cheerfulness in distressing circumstances. He said the Royal British Medical Corps is a wonderfully fine organization and that its work cannot be too highly praised. During the evening solos were rendered by Mr. Tom Shufelt, of Winchester, and were highly appreciated. Refreshments were served in the supper room and the fraternal features of the evening were much enjoyed.

The smiling little lady in the picture is very happy, as her expression indicates. She has good reason for her joy, because now she has a set of real furs for her own. Formerly this young lady used to wear mamma's on occasion, usually in the house. Not long ago, however, she had a mysterious visitor at night—he probably came down the chimney-and the next morning there was a beautiful set of furs bearing her name. Wasn't that a splendid surprise? The little girl thinks it was the finest thing that ever happened in her short lifetime.

Queer Bird Islands.

The most curious bird "islands" are to be found among the islands of Santa Barbara and in the California seas. These resting places for the birds are very small indeed, and often you can see the "island" disappear from sight, while the bird flutters hastily away to another.

They are simply fish that are perhaps the laziest in the whole world of ours. The natives call them the molamola, and the white folks know them as mole, or moon fish. They bask in the sun and seldom leave the surface of the water except when chased by an enemy. They vary in size up to ten feet across their backs. As for tails, they are satisfied with very rudimentary ones, a mere fringe of finlike growth serving as such. They are not afraid of the gulls and cormorants, for these birds settle down on their backs and rest there, preening and oiling their feathers and having a fine time. These fish are not good to eat, being of about the tenderness of india rub-

Shrewd Boy Horse Tamer.

Out in Oklahoma there is a boy who has turned his attention to gentling colts on his father's ranch, where a great many horses are raised for the general market. Heretofore they were sold as they came from the pasture, bad and good, tame and wild, gentle and vicious, with prices set accordingty. The boy saw the absurdity of this. If good horses brought double and treble the money that bad ones did, why have any bad ones to sell? And so he studied out and followed a set principle of gentling, to the effect that, after holding each animal until its education was complete, there were received fully three times the prices as formerly. Now this youngster has been made by his father a member of the ranch company and regularly draws down a fixed income and a bonus on his added work.-Philadelphia Ledger.

Peanut Butter Füdge.

Two cupfuls of light brown sugar, a half cupful of milk and a scant twothirds cupful of peanut butter. After boiling the sugar and milk to the soft ball stage, remove it from the fire and gradually beat in the peanut butter. Replace on the fire a moment, then spread on a buttered pan, and when partly cool cut into squares.

SALE OF UNREDEEMED REAL ESTATE BY THE Town of Lexington.

COLLECTOR'S OFFICE, Feb. 4th, 1916. In comformity with the laws of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, the public and all persons interested as former owners and occupants of each of the following described parcels of real estate, situated in the Town of Lexington, in the County of Middlesex and Commonwealth aforesaid, are hereby notified that said parcels have been conveyed according to law to said town for non-payment of taxes and assessments; and the time within which each of the estates might be redeemed by the owners thereof having expired, each of said parcels will be offered for sale in accordance with Section 68 of the statutes, by public auction, at the Town Hall in said Lexington, on FRIDAY, the twenty-fifth day of February, A. D., 1916, at nine o'clock and thirty minutes, A. M.; and to the highest bidder for each of the several parcels, a quit claim deed will be delivered.

For further particulars, reference is made to the Registry of Deeds of the County of Middlesex, the volume and page numbers following the description of each parcel indicating the record of the deed under which the said Town of Lexington now holds the title to the estate described. The sums set against the several estates show the amount due thereon respectively for the taxes and assessments for the non-payment of tax which said estate was sold to (or taken by) the said town, together with the subsequent taxes and assessments, interest on the same, and all lawful costs and charges. And none of the said estates will be sold for less than the amount set against the said estates respectively.

OFF FOR PALM BEACH.

One of the First Frocks For Her Going South.

SO SPRINGLIKE.

White pussy willow taffeta simply set up gives this charming gown with Its shoulder cape effect. A georgette erape guimpe is worn under the basquelike bodice, while a bouffant drape over one hip, the other side falling straight, gives a piquant skirt. The flyaway bow on the straw poke bonnet, with its rosebud, deserves especial notice.

A BEAUTIFUL NECK.

out Slavery to Routine.

How to Improve Your Throat With-

We all know that the neck should not be too short; should be smaller at the top than where it joins the chest and shoulders; that the shoulders should be neither too broad and well developed nor too narrow; that the bones of the chest and back should not be buried with flesh.

It is not given to every woman to have a beautiful neck and shoulders and chest. But she can make the most of the trio, as nature gave them to her, by massage and exercise. And she can do more.

She can care for the skin so carefully, perfecting the texture and coloring, that the form of the neck and chest and shoulders becomes secondary.

Often the skin of the back and chest and shoulders will have small eruptions when the face of the person is clear and free from any such disorder. This is because the clothes cover the body so tightly that the air and sun have no chance to purify the skin beneath as they do the skin of the face.

Frequent baths of sea salt also tend to clear the skin of the neck and bring the blood to the surface, giving it the glow of health. Olive oil or some good cold cream applied to this part of the body keeps the pores open and helps the skin to throw off any secretions which are clogging the pores.

Exercises which stretch the muscles of the back, chest and neck will keep away any superfluous flesh and make the flesh hard and firm.

The neck sometimes gets dark from high and tight collars. For a bleach use the magic of lemon juice diluted one third with water. Sponge with it and allow to dry on.

Oatmeal is splendid for whitening the skin and may be used freely.

Consider the Stomach.

The evil habit of going too long without food is one from which many people suffer in this present age. Men sit in their offices, women rush about shopping, and both become so absorbed in their respective interests that the period of hunger is allowed to pass and that of fatigue and depression to set in. The worst feature of such cases is that once the second stage is reached the desire for food is gone, and after this treatment of oneself the stomach is too exhausted to digest a meal when taken. This extreme should be avoided. It is only necessary to take a light diet. A glass of milk, a biscuit, will do to prevent after loss of appetite. And yet those who call themselves sensible prefer to ruin their health rather than take the time and trouble to turn into a restaurant and drink a glass of milk.

"What foels these mortals be!"

Southern Rice Bread.

Two cupfuls of white cornmeal, three eggs, one and one-quarter pints of milk, one cupful boiled rice, two tablespoonfuls of butter, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one-half teaspoonful of salt. Beat eggs. Add milk, meal, salt and butter. Beat. 'Add baking powder. Beat again. Bake in three greased pie dishes thirty

A Picture of the Belgian King. The king of the Belgians is not at all what the public imagines him to be. He is not in any sense a dashing soldier, nor does he ever look like one. He is a quiet young man who might pass for an Oxford don or a student of science. He has very fair hair, which never responds to the brush, but is always untidy in a rather pleasing manner, and a light complexion which becomes entirely pink when he is hot or shy. He is nearsighted and generally wears glasses, which give a certain staring effect to his blue eyes. His jaw is heavy and suggests tenacity, but his face is lightened by the frank and boy-

WINTER NECKWEAR.

Newest Notes About Attractive Ways to Dress Your Throat.

Windsor ties of silk taffeta and crape are in plain, ombre, striped and plaid effects. Ribbon ties are in velvet, satin, grosgrain and belting designs. These are more in cross stripes than in one color. The ends are tasseled with jet or steel, have large silk bails, plaited fans of silk or Chinese looking pendants of jade. The very newest have a buckle of the ribbon part way down, and tiny roses of chiffon dot the necklet from the buckle to the ends. The new jabots have a cascade of lace edging from three to ten inches wide.

The newest ideas are sport stock and glazed leather sets. Scarfs of this soft leather are swathed around the high collars. A plain piece of neckwear is a stock of black moire, taffeta or satin with high tabs in front and small tabs of white organdie resting on these. Striped velvet ribbon is worn as a necklet in rose, turquoise, black, bright green, watermelon pink, gold, old blue and violet.

Soft black satin ribbon six inches wide has pointed ends edged with skunk fur. The ribbon is wound around a high collar and tied in a large bow at the back on one side. A choker of violet faille has a short scarf of the same tied once in front, with a circular turnover at the top, fur edged. Turnover points in front trim high collars. Plaited ruches on top of high collars encircle the head. Panne velvet collars are trimmed with dull silver lace.

Vestees of white pique, plain and plaided silk, glazed feather, bits of ancient embroidery, beading, tapestry, broche, etc., are all used for a waist length vestee. Linen and pique stocks are stiff with an upper effect to turn over and are worn with a stock bow. One has wings at the sides, another has a tiny shelf standing out all around and points at the sides. Another is scalloped wider in front.

Marabou collars and muffs are in brown, gray or white and always trimmed with ribbon. A black maline collar and muff set has black and white ribbon bows centered with large jet buttons. Mr. th.

German Toast.

Materials.—Three eggs, one-half teaspoonful salt, two tablespoonfuls sugar, one cupful milk, six slices stale bread. Utensils.-Griddle, bowl, dish, egg beater, cup, spoon, knife, shallow dish.

Directions.—Beat eggs slightly; add salt, sugar, milk; strain into shallow dish. Soak bread in mixture; cook on a hot, well greased griddle; brown on one side, turn and brown on other. Serve with sauce made by creaming one-half cupful butter; add one cupful sugar gradually, one egg. well beaten; one teaspoonful vanilla. Just before serving add one-half cupful hot milk.

Mushrooms Stewed.

Take one and a half pints of button mushrooms, clean them, put into an enameled stewpan with three ounces of butter first melted and allowed to brown a little. Stir them gently and shake over a moderate fire in order that the butter may be well distributed over the mushrooms; then add a very little powdered mace or nutmeg with salt, white pepper and cayenne to taste. Cover and cook till done. Serve around or at one side of bread patties.

The Banks Centennial.

On Sunday one of the largest halls in the city of Waltham was filled in every part by distinguished guests, relatives and citizens of many towns and cities to celebrate the centennial anniversary of the birth of Nathaniel Parker Banks. For more than a generation he bore the title of "Waltham's most distinguished citizen," and as yet no citizen of that place has disputed that special honor.

Born in a humble station in life and early obliged to earn his living in a mill in that city, he so utilized his time in improving high special gifts that in early manhood he became a leader in public affairs. Chosen a member of the Mass. Legislature, he was raised to the position of Speaker. Entering a wider political field, Speaker Banks was chosen to represent the District of which his native city was a part and in that body his signal ability as a presiding officer, as developed in the convention to revise the Constitution of Massachusetts, was recognized by this election to the Speakership of the National House of Representatives, after a contest extending from early in December to February.

His next call to special service was to act as Governor of this Commonwealth, and the preparedness of the Old Bay State, when "war raised her grim visaged front" in 1861, was largely due to his mobilization of the state militia at Concord, where glaring deficiencies were discovered and provision made to correct the same was instituted.

Responding promptly to the call to detend the Union issued in 1861 by Prest. Lincoln, Gov. Banks tendered his own services. These were accepted, and for the remainder of his life, regardless of other titles, he was always referred to as Gen. Banks. He rose through various grades to Major General and as such was entrusted with a separate command, but he suffered the fate which, with rare exceptions, attended the fortunes of men entrusted with important military enterprises who lacked the military training of the schools.

Returning to civil life, Gen. Banks was given the honor of again representing his old District in Congress; then suffered defeat when he joined the attempt to elect Horace Greeley to the presidency; then was sent back by the constituency that had so lately rejected him. In this interval he had filled an extended term as U. S. Marshal.

Gen. Banks, with a voice capable of the finest oratorical effects, and a stage presence that is well shown in the statue now adorning Beacon Hill on the grounds of the State House, very early in life became the ideal campaign speaker and was in demand to a greater extent than almost any other man during middle life and retained these characteristics until more than well advanced in years of service. His ponderous sentences might not to-day make the appeal to a mixed audience that was the case even forty years ago, but then he was the platform idol to a vast

These brief facts and many others were splendidly brought out by Gov. Brackett, who was orator of the day at Waltham, and additional light was thrown on his remarkable career by briefer addresses from Gov. McCall and Ex-Lieut.-Gov. Mark, natives of Ardie, Scotland, now Luce. It was in all a creditable and fit- living with their mother at 99 Capen ting observance of the centennial of one street, Medford. The eldest of the three, who in every station proved himself an earnest and intelligent patriot.

Banks had a streak of the mountebank in his make-up, but he was perfectly sincere in his patriotism, and long before the need of it was generally seen he advocated in Congress some preparation for the internal position which we have now been compelled to take. He foresaw the Spanish war, foresaw the Isthmian canal, and advocated, immediately after the Civil War, the securing of a foothold in the Caribbean Sea, either by a protectorate over Santo Domingo or the purchase of the Danish Islands. With all his tendency to oratorical fustian, there was a basis of fine seriousness in Bank's public chrracter, and there can be no question that he was as intense a patriot as ever served his country .- Trans-

It is also said to be the crucial day in determining the weather:

"Should Candelmas Day be fair and bright Winter will take another flight."

Yet another factor of the day is the mythical appearance of the ground hog. With our darkened skies and a heavy snow fall, we are quite sure he was unable to see his shadow and may take it as a "sign" that the back-bone of winter has been broken. Certainly thus far we cannot complain of the cold.

The mysterious shootings (in one case causing death), in Albany, N. Y., hat for some days puzzled the police of that city, were evidently solved on Tuesday by the arrest of Harold L. Seavery, the twenty-five year old son of Melvin L. Seavery, author and inventor, formerly resident at Arlington Heights. The young man was at one time a patient at the Mc-Lean Asylum at Waverley and there is every indication that his doings in Albany were acts of a crazy man. The weapon used was a small rifile, loaded with a fulminite cartridge that was almost noiseless, operated beneath his coat sleeve by means of a wire to pull the trigger.

(Correspondence.) Town Government.

February 1, 1916. MESSRS. EDITORS:—The question of town government affects every citizen, for on its efficient and economical administration depends the success of the town, both financially and morally. Whether our present form of town government can be continued with success, or whether some other form would best serve the needs of the town, is a most serious question, which can be answered only after a searching and intelligent investigation.

Of course no thinking man supposes for a moment that a town or city can be run as an efficient up-to-date manufacturing or other business is conducted, for the purpose of a town government is exactly opposite to the purpose of a private enter-prise. The private business is strictly for the purpose of making money and as large a profit as possible, and for this reason only men who are experts in the business and who can get results, are appointed to office. The shareholders usually do not care who these men are, they do not ask their spiritual or political be-lief, or whether they are good fellows or not. What the shareholders want are profits,—the biggest kind of profits.

Now the government of a town, on the other hand, is not for the purpose of making money, and no profits are expected. Its purpose is to spend money and to spend it so that the citizens shall get the greatest return for their money which they pay into the town treasury in the shape of taxes. The private official is not handicapped, as is the town official, by having to cater to so many men of so many different minds and thoughts and ideas, nor is the town official free to do what he thinks best for the town; for the State in its wisdom has laid down rules in the shape of laws which forbid the town from doing many things as economically as would be possible without such re-straining laws. Then the town official has to cater to the popular vote; for no matter how much he may know or how efficient he may be, he cannot expect to hold office unless he is popular enough to get the most votes. So when we criticise our public officials, we should do so with mercy, and try to help them all we can. The amount of pay the members of our town boards receive is a mere pittance and would not for a moment be considered in a private business. The only real return the town official receives is the satisfaction he derives from the work he is trying to do for his fellow men. We can help the official who is trying to serve the town efficiently, by adopting a system of government that will permit him to be as free as an officer in a private corporation, and thus work for the best interests of the tax-payer.

Yours faithfully,
ARTHUR BIRCH.

Tenth Annivers ry.

James | Ray Cole Lodge, No. 160, Knights of Pythias, had a gala time last evening, Feb. 3rd, when it celebrated its tenth anniversary in Grand Army Hall, Arlington. The committee having the occasion in charge was made up of Messrs. Frank Haven, M. J. Manning, Lemuel L. Caton, J. C. Dalrymple. They provided an evening full of enjoyment. A formal program occupied the first half of the evening and was furnished by The Millie Beardsley Concert Co.," of Newton. This organization abounds in a variety of talent and all so excellent and attractive in its nature as to please the most exacting audience, as the following program will prove:-

Selection, Orchestra. Baritone solo, "Mother Machree," Mr. Francis Violin solo, "The Romance," Miss Zelesny

Reading, "While the auto ran down,"
Miss Morgan Contralto solo, "When I leave the World Be-

Mise Swain Goddard

Violin solo, "Wiegenlied," Miss Zelesny Reading, "Here comes the bride," Miss Morgan

Baritone solo, "The Rosary,"

Pianologue, "When Grandma had a Beau!" Miss Knight Orchestra, "America I love you."

The above was given in three parts, with two addresses intersected. The first was by the Grand Chancellor, Roger S. York, of the New England Lodge, of Bo-ton. He spoke in an interesting way pertinent to the occasion and his presence was an honor highly appreciated by the local lodge. The other speaker was the Vice Grand Chancellor, Harlan P. Knight, principal of the Powder House school at Somerville, and a member of the Spartan Lodge at Malden. He is an eloquent and gifted speaker, as well as finely educated and fully conversant with the claims of the order, which he presents in a highly entertaining way. The evening was concluded with refreshments and a dance.

James Ray Cole Lodge was instituted at Arlington Feb. 2, 1906, with thirteen members. It now has a membership of sixty. The first Chancellor Commander was Mr. William Murray, who was deceased three years ago. The present initial officer is Wm. G. Kimball, while the other Chancellor Commanders who have served the lodge in these intervening years are:-

W. H. H. Murray, George H. Rice, Arthur F. Breed, Guy E. Sanger, M. D., Chas. O. Cook, Boyden Strang, Harvey H. Bacon, Morton J. Manning, Arthur B. Moulton, Lemuel L. Katon, Frank W. Haven, John W. Bain, William G. Kimball.

The Metropolitan for February has for its feature article "Taking His Ticket Away," by James B. Connolly, in which he says that a big ship's captain can be as negligent as he large number of 225. The largest number of patients at the hospital at any one time was 29, while the smallest one time was 29, while the smallest defenses of this country. Theodore Rossevelt number was 5. The total number of in his article, "Awake and Prepare," says that patient days amounts to 4905. The ratio of hospital earnings to operating expense has been as above stated, 85.5%, while the average daily cost per patient is reckoned at $3.29.

In his article, "Awake and Prepare," says that by being unprepared this country invites disaster of the same brand that was visited upon Belgium. The two serials, "The Lion's Share," by Arnold Bennett, and "The Wishing Moon," by Louise Dutton, are continued. There are short stories by Booth Tarkington, Fannie Hurst and Dana Gatlin.

Railway regulation by the government is put to a severe test in the confusion due to car shortage. That regulation is a good thing sometimes has been proved to the satisfaction of all who are not captious. The question that remains is how much regulation there should be for the good of both the roads and the public. The railways claim by way of excusing shortage of cars and engines and terminals that regulation has denied them the chance to win profits in good years and that losses in bad years have put the average on the wrong side of the ledger. So they stood a combined loss for 1914 of $120,000,000. A prolonged trade blockade might cost the country even more than that and be taken as proof that too much and too drastic the cat licked her paws as she lay regulation is simply "penny wise and upon the rug.

However, the essential thing is to build up a higher standard of citizenship, and, once this is attained, the good work will spread without undue pushing.

The first notable death recorded in 1916 was that of the great tragedian Salvini, who died in his native Italy on New Year's day. In his prime Salvini held rank among the foremost actors of the world. Thirty years ago he played in this country with Edwin Booth, taking the part of Othello. In a visit fifteen years before that he played in the leading cities, speaking in a tongue foreign to his auditors. But the language of his parts was so familiar that his dramatic gestures and tragic tones carried their full force home to his English speaking hearers.

Bowser Buys Coal

And He Meets With a Dishonest Honest Dealer.

By M. QUAD Copyright, 1916, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.

The Bowsers had eaten dinner. A cheerful fire burned in the grate, and Outside the house there was a cold north wind and a squall of snow now

Mr. Bowser was half nodding in his sleep when a voice crying out interrupted his contentment. It was Mrs. Bowser's voice, and it was exclaiming

"There, there; I have forgotten that

"Hey! What! Why don't you scare a fellow to death and be done with it?" demanded Mr. Bowser.

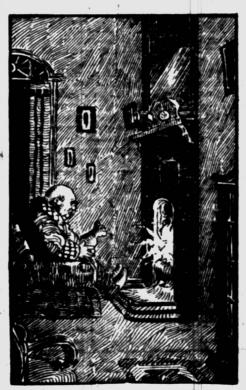

"I only said I had forgotten to telephone for some new coal. I suppose it is too late now? All the dealers will

"Yes, they must have gone home. Is the coal for the furnace all gone?"

"There may be enough to last tomorrow. I ought to have telephoned early this morning, but I had a hundred different things on my mind.

"Mrs. Bowser, it seems to me that the last two tons of coal went very fast," said Mr. Bowser, as he jabbed at the fire with the poker.

"I know it did, and yet I tried my best to be saving. I don't believe there

"More likely it was half a ton."

"And can't you do anything about it? Bowser. Other husbands tend to such things. Why don't you, instead of leaving it to me? The coal men will cheat a woman quicker than a man. They know that she won't come to the office to complain about short weight. We are being cheated because you won't see about it."

"Well, I will tell you what I will do," said Mr. Bowser as he suddenly made up his mind. "I will start out in the morning to buy two more tons of coal. I will visit five or six coal offices and let them know I am up to snuff and can't be imposed upon, and we will little trip that I have often thought of making, but haven't got around to it yet. Yes, by George, we will put a foot down on this short weight business!" Nothing more was said that evening, atthough Mrs. Bowser could have added that he had better stop at the grocer's and the butcher's before his trip light of a scrap shining in his eyes, Mr. Bowser started out among the dealers in coal. At the first office he entered he saids. "I have come for two tons of coal-furnace coal." "Certainly, certainly," replied the man. "This weather burns up the coal very fast. "I want to ask a few questions before you take my order.'

"Oh, to be sure." smiled the dealer. You can ask a dozen questions. "Can I depend on you sending me 2,000 pounds full weight for a ton?

"Why, of course. You don't think I would send you less, do you?" "And it will be clear of slag and

"As clear as noonday, sir. No one time ago that you had a contract with the city to supply one of the public schoolhouses and that you were short in tons in the contract and had to make it good?" asked Mr. Bowser.

"Oh, as to that," laughed the dealer, 'my weigher of coal, who has been with me for the last fifteen years, got There will be no protests, diplomatic Frunk one day and made a mistake called to the shortage I was only too glad to correct it at once. Shall I send the two ton: of coal to your house at

> "I am going up the street," replied Mr. Bowser, "and I will stop when I come back and leave the order."

At the next coal office they were weighing a load on the scales as Mr.

Bowser came along. He cast a look at the weight, and as near as he could figure they were giving 1,850 pounds for a ton. Nevertheless, he went in.

"Good morning, sir," saluted the dealer. "How much coal did you wish to order this morning?"

"That depends somewhat on circumstances," was the reply. Will you assure me of full weight?" "Oh, most surely. That is one of the things I pride myself on." "And clean coal?"

and slate in sight."

was too late.

"That is another of the things." "I just noticed a ton load on your scale, and I saw that it was 150 pounds short, and there was a heap of slag

The dealer turned very red in the face and rushed out into the yard and was absent three or four minutes. When he returned to tell Mr. Bowser that it was a ton of coal ordered for the house of one of his employees and was sold almost at half price he found his customer was gone. He ran out again and berated the weigher, but it

Mr. Bowser found the next three dealers courteous, honest men. They gave full weight and sometimes a little more; they sold only clean coal; their aim was to satisfy all customers; they had never had a complaint. The grocer and butcher might give short weight, but never the coal man; his conscience forbade that.

Mr. Bowser extended his trip for two miles without placing his order and finally entered the sixth office.

"How many tons and where to?" asked the dealer as he wet the point of his pencil with his tongue.

"I want two tons of coal, but"-"But you want to do a little kicking first. Kick away." "Will you deliver me a full 4,000

"No, sir," was the emphatic reply.

"If I deliver 3,700 pounds you might thank your stars!" "But will it be free burning coal?"

"No, sir! There will be the usual amount of slag and slate mixed in." "But-but"— stammered Mr. Bowser, in his surprise.

"Oh, don't take me for a fool!" said the dealer. "You have doubtless been to other dealers, and they claimed to be honest men and filled you up with promises of full weight and free coal. I am not an honest coal dealer myself, nor am I a liar. No man is in the coal business for his health. We are all driven into dishonesty. I have just received a consignment of 200 tons of coal. It is at least ten tons short. Am I going to make up for the loss, or have my customers got to do it?" Mr. Bowser did not reply.

"Look here, old man," continued the dealer. "The mine owner cheats his railroad. The railroad cheats the wholesale dealer. The wholesale dealer cheats the retailer. The retailer cheats the consumer. I have six drivers, and every one of them cheats me by selling from his load three or four b of coal on every trip he makes. Besides that, there is stealing from a yard, and my watchman sells a barrel or two of coal every night. It is an endless chain of cheating, and they who won't chest are out of the business after one year."

"But who will I cheat?" asked Mr.

"You may cheat the man who shovels the snow off the sidewalk-if you can," was the sobered reply. "At least you will have to cheat somebody or I would like to be an honest man, but I can't be, the way things are run. Will you give me your order, sir, and let me cheat you? It might as well be me as any of the others,'

"I-I think I will," replied Mr. Bowser. "I have tried honest men long a dishonest one." And Mr. Bowser gave his address. paid for the coal and walked out. He up, and as there was a public scale within two blocks of his house he said to the coal wagon driver:

"Had you just as soon drive over and weigh this coal?"

The driver said he would be delight was over. After breakfast, with the extra weight for the vehicle figured out. There were just 4,150 pounds. "How does this come?" was asked of the driver.

> "Oh, my boss is one of those dishonest coal dealers," was the laughing

And when Mrs. Bowser was told of the strange occurrence she replied:

"Mr. Bowser, you go out and look for a dishonest grocer and butcher, and we will solve the problem of the high cost of living. I knew there was a way to do it if we could only strike it."

Retouching the Ready Made

It is not every woman's good fortune to be able to cut and fit and make her own clothes. Some have not the time, while others have not the ability, and many have neither. The busy woman especially hates to give her precious minutes to long hours with the dressmaker, and it is for such that the shops put on their racks and counters such a number of stylish ready made garments. For the fastidious woman, however, it is something of a shock to see herself, so to speak, coming down the street in the identical frock or suit she is wearing. For her there is nothing to do but to invest in the cheaper ready made garments and put the remainder of the allowance into fixings that will make the frock, suit or blouse partake of her own personality. After all, one's clothes should reflect one's personality.

For sheer tailored blouses there is a happy expedient that any woman can resort to with a few stitches, and that is to apply under the sheer material a length of figured or contrasting colored ribbon. This will "dress up" the blouse with the smallest possible expenditure of time and money.

The styles are so accommodating at present that a frock may be completely changed with very little trouble. An imported gown in a smart shop suggests a way of putting "the punch" into a cheap taffeta dance frock. The imported model had a very straight gathered skirt, which was turned under at each side for a distance of four or five inches at the hem to reveal a lace petticoat. This gave a bouffant appearance without interfering with the cut of the skirt. A girdle of old blue velvet contrasted beautifully with the flesh tint of the frock. A tulle scarf was suggested for softening the corsage. A cheap drop skirt on an otherwise good looking dance frock may be omitted entirely, the lace petticoat sufficing to give the fluffy appearance at the foot.

Leather collars and cuffs, from new leather to be bought at a leather house or from the arms of a good pair of kid gloves where the hands are worn out, will make a bought suit take on a different air. A leather belt added in place of the fabric belt will give tone to a Russian blouse coat. New lining will make a cheaper plush coat look much more expensive and dressy, as often the lining is where the manufacfurer has saved his pennies to make his profit on the coat.

A large suit skirt may be shirred into fitting at the waist line, and a belt of material, which comes from the piece taken off the hem, added for Braiding on pockets will dress up a plain suit, or the addition of new fur will often help out.

More than a Million People have seen Douglas Fairbanks and Seena Owen In Triangle's splendid production of "The Lamb"

When Broadway goes crazy about a moving picture—it's time for you to see it.

If you have seen "The Lamb," be fair to your friends. Tell them to see it, too.

If you haven't—get hold of the manager of the Moving Picture Theatre you go to and ask him to get the film and run it.

Even if it does cost him a little more than usual pictures, he will be glad to get it-for he will make money on it.

The speed of the story,—the big scenes with hundreds of people and hundreds of horses; the tightness you have in the throat when "The Lamb," all by himself, makes a stolen Gatling spit hell-fire and death at a howling mob,—all these help—

But when lovely Seena Owen crawls up into Douglas Fairbanks' arms—and smiles— Well—you are so glad you went that you go again; and take your friends.

Which is why more than a million people have seen "The Lamb."

Every TRIANGLE picture may not be as good as "The Lamb." But every TRI-ANGLE picture is so far out of the usual moving picture class that it is worth going miles out of your way to see. See "The Lamb." Orsee it again. Any Moving Picture Theatre can get "The Lamb"; if it has already been shown nearby the crowd will be so much the bigger.

Woman's World

An American Novelist Founds a Paying Workroom In Paris.

Mrs. Wharton, author of "The House of Mirth," tells how a paying workroom for war sufferers is founded:

When the war broke out an immense number of benevolent and unoccupied women in Paris felt a violent but vague impulse to "help." This impulse found its chief expression in the traditional pursuits of making lint, hemming towels and crocheting beby jackets. Such activities are harmless in days of peace, but in wartime any unpaid industry encroaches on the rights of the unemployed, and this fact was so promptly understood in France that I can claim only by a few weeks' priority the honor of having founded the first paying workroom in Paris. My ouvroir, which started tentatively and on a small scale, was at first meant only to supply work for a few seamstresses of my own quarter, but with the temporary paralysis of trade such a wave of misery swept over Paris that the most prudently circumscribed charities had to enlarge their borders and take their chance of finding the means to exist. It was impossible to confine my aid to seamstresses when typists and accountants, nursery governesses and dramatic artists, cooks and concert singers were all pleading for help, but I kept and have continued to keep to one of my original rulesthat no one I employed should be in receipt of what is called the "military allowance." All over Paris in these early days workrooms were being opened to help the wives and mothers of soldiers. Wives, widows and young girls without near relatives in the army were not unnaturally overlooked, and it was for their benefit that my workroom was started.

My first step was to appeal for help to my compatriots in Paris. I collected over $2,000 within a week or two, and with that sum the foundations of the work were laid. I bought a large supply of materials, made arrangements to have my women fed in a neighboring restaurant and put over my door the sign of the Red Cross. under whose auspices the work was begun. The women receive 20 cents a day and a good midday meal in return for six hours' work. On Thursdays they have a half holiday with full pay. but whenever there is a sudden call for hospital supplies or any urgent order they cheerfully give up their

When a woman applies for work she shows her papers, gives references and is asked to prove that she is not receiving either the "military allowance" or what is called the "assistance to the unemployed." Her statements are verified by inquiries at her mairie. and if the report is favorable she is engaged for two months.

Thursday afternoon.

The two months over, she has to leave, but if she-chooses we give her piecework at home for a month. At the end of the month, if there is a vacancy, she can return to the workroom for another two months, and so on. This system of rotation was establish ed as soon as it became evident that the war was to last a long time, and the result has been satisfactory.

So Transparent! The transparent hat has been such a welcome comer that its popularity has extended for more than the usual brie season run. This is also true of the transparent hem which has had such a vogue during the fall and winter. while the transparent frock that reveals the silken trousers beneath is a creation of this season. Transparent scarfs, too, of white or flesh colored tulle, so wrapped that they cover the chin, are also receiving a great deal of attention by this year's debutante. So it will be understood that the advent of a coat which reveals the frock beneath and such a coat trimmed with fur to add to the luxurious effect will not be such a startling idea as it sounds on first hearing.

Plans are being formulated, in conjunction with the Town Planning Board, for an open meeting to be held the latter part of this month, when Mr. Huger Killott, who has been giving a course of lectures under the direction of the Arts and Civics committees of the club, will give a stereopticon lecture on "Civic art, streets and parks, public and semi-public buildings."
The general public will be invited to attend this lecture (which will be free), in the hope of arousing public interest in the civic betterment of our town.
